MARKET COMMENTARY

March 2024 was another positive month for investors and similar to February, the returns were led by another different source, namely the UK.

The FTSE 100 delivered 4.85% during March as a result of the global search for attractive valuations and improving economic data. Closely following, the FTSE 250 mid cap index returned 4.36%, the Numis Smaller Companies (ex-Investment Trusts) index delivered 4.19%.

We also saw a potential broadening of the returns in the US, which have been, to date, concentrated in popular Mega Cap technology and communication services stocks. Whilst the Nasdaq 100 index, a reasonable proxy for these companies, returned 1.37% during March, the (slightly) broader S&P 500 index delivered 3.36%.

A similar market broadening was visible within year to date's best returning market, Japan. The price weighted Nikkei 225 index returned 207%, whereas its market-cap weighted TOPIX counterpart delivered 3.42%.

Once again, there were no changes to the fund during the month and continue to be pleased with the positive performance generated. We watch with particular interest to this apparent market broadening which we believe that the fund will take advantage of, due to the significant geographic diversification that we employ.

PERFORMANCE

The IA (Investment Association) Global Sector is used as the comparator. This is considered appropriate for investors to use when comparing performance as the risk profile of the Sub-fund is expected to be similar to the sector. The sector is not constructed as an Index, therefore as funds enter or leave the sector composition can change, but it is considered that the sector remains a useful and relevant comparator for investors to assess performance within a relevant peer group.
